

Table of contents

Introduction	13
 PART I. Discourse analysis theory and methods from the perspective of research on international migrations
1.1. Category of discourse – definition and theoretical issues	27
1.1.1. Overview of definitions of discourse.	27
1.1.2. Selected theoretical perspectives regarding the category of discourse	29
1.1.3. Discourse and text.	33
1.1.4. Discourse and context.	35
1.1.5. Category of public discourse	36
1.1.6. Proposition of the author’s own definition of discourse and its types	37
1.2. Category of public debate – definition and theoretical issues	39
1.2.1. Public debate and public discourse.	39
1.2.2. Populism and demagogy in public debate	44
1.3. Analysis of public discourse – methodological assumptions	46
1.3.1. Various ways of understanding the category of discourse analysis	46
1.3.2. “Politolinguistic” perspective	47
1.3.3. “CDAsation” of discourse analysis	48
1.3.4. Marked terms in discourse analysis on the example of the category of racism and hate speech	51
1.3.5. Critical discourse analysis – advantages and disadvantages.	57
1.3.6. Alternative for the Critical Discourse Analysis (CDA)	59
1.3.7. Research process.	60
1.4. Role of language in public discourse	61
1.5. Role of media in public discourse.	65
1.5.1. Selected theories of media influence on public opinion	65
1.5.2. Future of public discourse	72
1.5.3. Role of media in the discourse on migrations	75
1.6. Influence of political correctness on public discourse	77
1.7. Discursive strategies in public discourse	81

1.7.1. Typology of discursive strategies	82
1.7.2. Nomination strategies	83
1.7.3. Predication strategies	85
1.7.4. Argumentation strategies (topoi)	87
1.7.5. Intensification and mitigation strategies	89
1.7.6. Framing and perspectivation strategies	93
1.8. Rhetorical and eristic devices in implementing discursive strategies	95
1.8.1. Essence of rhetoric and eristic	95
1.8.2. Argumentative devices	98
1.8.3. Stylistic/linguistic devices	101
1.8.4. Generalisation, analogy, assumption and silence	105
1.8.5. Feigned messages	107
1.8.6. Refuting, disarming and escapist messages	109
1.8.7. Metaphors and metonyms	110
1.8.8. Presuppositions and implicatures	111
Summary of part one	113

PART II. Migrant crisis in europe in light of desk research

2.1. Migrant crisis and policy towards this crisis – definition and terminological issues	117
2.1.1. Category of migrant crisis	117
2.1.2. Category of a policy towards the migrant crisis	123
2.2. Statistical image of the migrant crisis from the perspective of its apogee	126
2.2.1. Migrant crisis as a global problem	127
2.2.2. Key routes of migration to Europe	130
2.2.3. Flow of migrants applying for international protection to EU member states	134
2.2.4. Decisions on granting international protection – European countries and the rest of the world	137
2.2.5. Resettlements to EU member states from the perspective of the migrant crisis apogee	138
2.2.6. Migration situation in the EU after 2015 in light of selected statistics	139
2.2.7. Synthetic findings of statistics analysis	142
2.3. Policy in the EU towards the migrant crisis and its implications	143
2.3.1. Decision-making process concerning relocations and resettlements	143
2.3.2. Germany's role in migrant crisis management	149
2.3.3. Launch of hotspots	151

2.3.4.	Tightening of the migration policy	153
2.3.5.	EU's agreement with Turkey and African countries	157
2.3.6.	Standpoint of the states implementing the "anti-relocation" policy	160
2.3.7.	EU's response to the "anti-relocation" policy	163
2.3.8.	Implementation of the decision on relocations and resettlements	165
2.3.9.	Propositions of solutions and further decisions on the European policy towards the migrant crisis	170
2.4.	Polish policy towards the migrant crisis	174
2.4.1.	Evolution of the Polish policy towards the migrant crisis	174
2.4.2.	Resolutions of the Sejm of the Republic of Poland on the migrant crisis	179
2.4.3.	Migration to Poland and the Polish migration policy against the migrant crisis in light of other data and information	181
2.5.	Migrant crisis in public opinion surveys	184
2.5.1.	International surveys	184
2.5.2.	Domestic surveys	189
2.5.3.	Synthetic findings of public opinion surveys	196
2.6.	Migrant crisis in public discourse analyses – overview of selected studies	197
2.6.1.	European public discourse	197
2.6.2.	Polish public discourse	200
2.6.3.	Synthetic findings of the discourse analyses conducted to date	209
	Summary of part two	211

PART III. Migration crisis in the polish public discourse in light of the results of the author's own empirical research

3.1.	Methodological assumptions and specific research questions	217
3.2.	Discursive strategies applied by advocates of Poland's participation in the implementation of the relocation and resettlement mechanism (or supporting them)	232
3.2.1.	Frame of humanitarian crisis	233
3.2.2.	Frame of community and interdependence of EU member states	242
3.2.3.	Frame of questioning the reasonability of the concerns about migration waves	248
3.2.4.	Frame of pathological factors shaping opponents' behaviours	272

3.2.5. Frame of reasonability / a reasonable (migration, international) policy	278
3.2.6. Frame of Poland's past and historical experiences	290
3.2.7. Frame of denial of a policy open to refugees and declaration of distance towards relocations and resettlements	292
3.2.8. Nomination and prediction strategies applied by advocates of relocations and resettlements (or supporting them)	297
3.3. Discursive strategies applied by opponents of Poland's participation in the implementation of the relocation and resettlement mechanism (or supporting them)	300
3.3.1. Frame of external pressure and necessity to defend the national sovereignty	301
3.3.2. Frame of security and threats	308
3.3.3. Frame of irrationality and lack of humanitarianism of the relocation and resettlement mechanism	337
3.3.4. Frame of caring for one's own group/society	341
3.3.5. Frame of a reasonable policy towards migration and the migrant crisis	346
3.3.6. Frame of Poland's past and historical experiences	363
3.3.7. Nominal and prediction strategies applied by opponents of relocations and resettlements (or supporting them)	366
Summary of part three	371
Conclusion	375
Abstract	386
Bibliography	389
List of tables and charts	418
Index of names	420