

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	9
CHAPTER 1. Three decades of Polish modernization.
Analytical framework	15
1.1. Success or failure? Balance sheet items	15
1.2. What is modernization?	24
1.3. Methodological inspirations and theoretical perspective	29
1.4. Political significance of narratives	33
1.5. Basic stories	37
1.6. Capricious narrators	48
CHAPTER 2. Do it yourself, or the trap of egotistic economism	54
2.1. Liberalism and neoliberal narrative	55
2.2. International context. Thatcher, Reagan, and the Washington Consensus	61
2.3. Neoliberalism the Polish way. From Gdańsk liberals to the Warm Tap Water	69
2.4. Economism in action. The case of marketization of public services	92
2.5. Criticism of expansive marketization	106
2.6. Could it have been done differently?	112
CHAPTER 3. Full speed astern, or the intricacies of populist retrotopia	121
3.1. Conservatism and national conservative narrative	122
3.2. International context. We want to be ourselves (again)	127
3.3. Polish historiophilia and the return of traditionalism	142
3.4. Retromania in action. The case of the Good Change	149
3.5. Retreat from liberal democracy	167
3.6. The base of authoritarian populism	177
3.7. Looping of two narratives	187

CHAPTER 4. Third option, or towards an active republic 200

4.1. International context. In search of a new story 201

4.2. Traces and contours of progressive narrative 210

4.3. From post-transformation to pro-innovative modernization 226

4.4. Polish compass rose. Is it time to go North? 234

CHAPTER 5. Three main stories. An attempt at a summarization 246

5.1. Comparison of narratives 247

5.2. Conclusions and prospects 256

BIBLIOGRAPHY 269

INDEX OF NAMES 284