

CONTENTS

Introductory remarks .....	11
Remarks on transcription and translation .....	13
Introduction .....	17
Chapter I: Family bonds .....	59
1. The meaning and form of family bonds in the Arab world .....	59
2. Matrimonial strategies: social and political meaning of marriage .	65
3. Influential families in the politics of the Arab world .....	73
4. Family bonds and power: ruling dynasties .....	76
5. Women and their participation in socio-political life .....	98
Conclusions .....	104
Chapter II: Tribal and territorial bonds .....	106
1. Tribal people and non-tribal people .....	106
2. The tribe and tribal society .....	112
3. Sheikhs and leadership in the tribe .....	115
4. The asabiyya as principal tribal value .....	117
5. The canon of tribal values as the ideal pattern .....	122
6. Tribal law and its mechanisms .....	126
7. Historical memory, origin and tribal identity of an individual ....	135
8. Parton-client relations in tribal reality: the wala and jiwar .....	137
9. Tribes and politics in the contemporary Arab states .....	141
10. Neotribalism – a postmodern form of bond? .....	150
11. Territorial bonds as a foundation of individual's identity .....	151
Conclusions .....	154
Chapter III: Patron-client bonds .....	156
1. The baya as a mechanism of legitimization of power .....	156
2. The makhzan as central category of the Moroccan political culture .....	166
3. Patron-client relations in political systems of the Arab states ....	177
4. The wasata as a patron-client institution .....	195
Conclusions .....	198

Chapter IV: Ethnic, civic, national and pan-Arab bonds .....	200
1. Ethnicity, nationality and pan-Arabism .....	200
2. Cultural identity of the ethnic communities and state policy .....	204
3. Creations of nations and nationalisms .....	228
4. The Arab identity: pan-Arabism ‘in theory’ and ‘in practice’ .....	255
Conclusions .....	277
Chapter V: Religious bonds .....	279
1. The specificity of Islam in the Arab world .....	279
2. The shura in political systems of the Arab states .....	281
3. Prestige and religious genealogy as bases of legitimization of power .....	284
4. The cult of saints in popular Islam .....	294
5. The baraka as a form of confirmation of the right to exercise power .....	308
6. Islam in politics: political parties, Muslim associations and religious brotherhoods .....	314
7. Pan-Islamism – the umma as global community .....	322
8. Jews and Christians in the Arab politics .....	329
Conclusions .....	349
Final remarks .....	351
Summary .....	357
Bibliography .....	358